

Therma-Tru Benchmark expands decorative glass portfolio with Montebello

MAUMEE, OHIO – New Montebello decorative glass expands the wrought iron offering in the Therma-Tru Benchmark portfolio, providing homeowners with a simplified option to accent their entries.

A romantic design with Old World influences, Montebello decorative glass features soft arches of wrought iron amid flowing waterglass. Vertical wrought iron elements and decorative accents add stately and subtle elegance. Inspired by historic cathedral architecture, Montebello glass puts a modern twist on traditional wrought iron designs. The design is ideal for a variety of architectural styles including Modern Tudor, Contemporary, Rustic and Southwest.

“Montebello is the perfect addition to our popular decorative glass collection, offering homeowners style without sacrificing security,” said Kate Haws, product manager for Therma-Tru Corp.

Montebello welcomes natural light into the home while offering modest privacy, with an opacity rating of five out of 10. The wrought iron design adds style with a sense of strength and security. Montebello’s wrought iron grille is layered between double-pane insulated safety glass, eliminating the need to clean the bars of the design.

Montebello decorative glass is available for Mahogany and Oak wood-grained fiberglass doors as well as smooth fiberglass doors. Offered in small and large glass sizes, Montebello not only adds style to the front entry, it can also be used for side and back doors and exterior doors to the garage to create a cohesive look around the home.

Available exclusively at Lowe’s, Montebello decorative glass is included in the Therma-Tru Benchmark fiberglass door system lifetime limited warranty for peace of mind. Learn more at www.thermatrubenchmark.com.
